Did someone tell you to pay with gift cards? It's a scam

September 11, 2020

Blog Post

Maybe someone said you've won the lottery, a prize or sweepstakes. Or they claim to be from the government and tell you there's a problem with your Social Security number. And, to collect your winnings or solve your problem, you have to pay with gift cards. But
